

From a Difficult Life Emerge Out-of-this-World Gifts...Part 1

By Melissa Jagst, with Karen Larre

When I was born, my parents were both addicted to drugs. The family decided that the best solution was to give me up for adoption. Friends of my family knew a couple who were childless and wanting to adopt. At the age of 2, the adoption was finalized quickly and I went to live with my new parents. At the age of nearly 3 years, my biological parents tried to get me back, but weren't successful. By the age of 4 years, my adopted mother had divorced my adopted dad and due to financial constraints, we moved in with a very abusive woman. This woman, on more than one occasion, locked us up in the bedroom and stole our money. When her goldfish died, she accused me of killing it. She put a layer of honey along the window ledge with the sofa underneath. She sat me on the sofa and made me stay there as bees swarmed. Miraculously, while the bees were buzzing all around me, I wasn't stung at all. They were more attracted to the honey than to me, but the experience was terrifying. My mother wanted to report this horror to the authorities and get us out of there, but we were trapped...she couldn't afford to move us right away and the woman (a prostitute) was dating police officer.

My first encounter with spirits happened at about the age of 7 years. I was at my grandfather's home, where I spent the summers there because my mother worked so much. It was my safe place, where I could be a kid, relax and enjoy myself. My bedroom was upstairs, at the end of a long hall. One night I had trouble falling asleep and heard noises, as if someone was walking up the stairs. I hid under the covers and kept peeking out, scared that someone was coming up the stairs. Next, I saw two male transparent shapes floating down the hall. As they got closer, I was really frightened and ran down the hall towards my grandfather's room. I was so surprised and confused as I turned around and looked back to see what had happened – I had run right through them! They also turned to look at me. Shaking, I ran into grandpa's room and slept there for the night.

In the morning, I told my grandparents what I saw the night before. My grandmother (who slept in a different room) thought I was lying, but my grandfather just smiled, and didn't say anything. Later that day, we heard that earlier in the previous evening, the neighbor's son had passed away. My grandpa told me privately, "perhaps he came to visit you." From that time to today, I've had many visits from and experiences with spirits on the other side. I know that there is absolutely something more that exists besides this human world and that something more interacts with us, whether we know it or not.

Today, I am having indescribable psychic experiences, dialogue with loved ones who have passed and ghosts who need help crossing over. People from all walks of life are healing many aspects of their lives; emotional, mental, physical and spiritual through the process of working with me.

I did a phone reading with a woman who wanted to contact her recently deceased husband. She was determined not to give me any information. She asked, "What does he want me to know?" I was feeling a little nervous, given such vague information, but he started talking right away and off we went. He said, "I know the experience was traumatic, but everything is ok. I know you are wondering about moving on and I want you to know that it is ok. There might be family members who do not approve of it, but please know that I am ok with it." She asked questions about specific family members and he answered. She did not respond with any emotion and gave me no feedback whatsoever. I didn't know if any of the information I received from him and shared with her was accurate at all. I asked, "How was the information?" She said I was about 95% accurate. She then shared with me that she had started seeing someone and was relieved because he basically gave her his blessing.

Clients sometimes challenge me this way, but by the end of readings like this, I feel very confident about my abilities because the feedback I get from clients is pretty much the same – clients are often shocked at how accurate the information is that comes through. I feel very blessed to be able to be of service in this way.
